Welcome

On behalf of the board of directors, board of governors, staff and volunteers of the Japan America Society of Southern California, we warmly welcome you to our 104th Anniversary Dinner & Gala Celebration. We also extend our deep appreciation to all of our sponsors and supporters, especially Hitachi, Ltd., our Diamond Dinner Sponsor and this year’s honoree. Thank you for making this evening possible.

We are pleased to honor Hitachi, Ltd. tonight with our Kokusai Shimin Sho International Citizens Award. Hitachi, Ltd. is being recognized for its contributions to the U.S.-Japan relationship through business, technology, corporate social responsibility and its support for educational programs in the United States. Furthermore, for nearly three decades the senior representatives from Hitachi, Ltd. have served on the Society’s board of directors. Hitachi, Ltd. has been one of the Society’s strongest supporters, particularly for our educational programs. These programs include: the Hitachi Japanese Kite Workshops, which benefit more than 1,000 underserved children each year; Japan Bowl of Southern California, a high school Japanese language and culture competition that motivates and rewards students who have chosen Japanese as their foreign language of study; and the Japan America Kite Festival®, the largest single day kiting event in the U.S. that attracts more than 12,000 visitors each year. For these reasons and much more, we thank Hitachi, Ltd.!

The past year has been one of the Society’s most successful to date, as well as one of the busiest. One of the many highlights of 2012 was our presentation of “Iron Chef Hiroyuki Sakai LIVE”, the first official Iron Chef event outside of Japan. Held on December 8th and generously sponsored by NITTO Tire U.S.A. Inc., InterContinental LA Century City at Beverly Hills, and American Airlines, the event included a six-course gourmet dinner prepared by Iron Chef Hiroyuki Sakai and Executive Chef Jonathan Wood of the InterContinental LA Century City luxury hotel. The event both increased awareness about the Society and raised over $100,000 to support our educational programs.

In late 2012, the Society won a generous three-year “JAS Initiative” capacity-building grant from the Japan Foundation CGP (Center for Global Partnership). Year one of the grant has covered the expenses for the recent JAS 2013 Online Membership Survey and a strategic planning retreat. Using data from the survey, the membership committee is creating a two-year membership campaign with the goal of increasing membership by 50%. The result will be increased opportunities for the Society to promote Japan and the U.S.-Japan relationship to the 22 million people of Southern California.

The Society was also one of four JASs to win a two-year grant from the TOMODACHI-NAJAS Grassroots Exchange Program. This two-year grant will allow two delegations of eight children and one chaperone from Fukushima Aiikuen (FA) children’s home (orphanage) to visit Los Angeles for a ten-day exchange. The grant is made possible by the TOMODACHI initiative, a public-private partnership led by the U.S. Government and the U.S.-Japan Council and supported by the Japanese Government. The TOMODACHI initiative supports Japan’s recovery from the Great East Japan Earthquake and invests in the next generation of Japanese and Americans, strengthening cultural and economic ties and deepening the friendship between the U.S. and Japan over the long-term. With the generosity of the TOMODACHI-NAJAS grant, made possible by donations from Hitachi, Ltd., Mitsubishi Corporation and Toyota Motor Corporation, the children from FA will enjoy a life-changing visit to Los Angeles.

The Society’s board of directors continues to diligently manage the 2011 Japan Relief Fund. After the March 11, 2011 Great East Japan Earthquake, the Society immediately served in a leadership role as a trusted information source, and established its disaster relief fund. Thanks to your unprecedented and heartfelt support, we have raised nearly $1.5 million, an amount recognized as one of the most successful U.S.-based relief fundraising efforts for Japan. The 2011 Japan Relief Fund is now assisting with long-term recovery in the devastated areas of Tohoku.

Finally, we are pleased to announce the Society has moved to a new office space in the South Bay. The move took place just last week, and we are now located in the Toyota Plaza building on 190th Street, just off the 405 freeway between Western and Normandie avenues. The new location will help the Society better serve its entire membership, which includes a significant number of individuals and companies in Orange County.

We thank the Anniversary Dinner Committee and the Society’s staff, who began working on this evening’s program last year. We also thank you for your participation tonight, which has allowed us to reach the goals set by the Committee. Your generous contributions and support are imperative for the Society to continue its important work of building relationships between Japanese and Americans.

Please enjoy the evening!

Sincerely,

Terry S. Hara

Mari Payton loves everything about San Diego. The people, the weather and its beaches. She feels fortunate to be bringing San Diegans the news every day.

As of April 2013 Mari will be a full time investigative reporter leading the NBC 7 I-Team. Two of Payton’s past investigations, “A Prescription for Pot” and “Car Buyers Beware” have earned Emmy Awards. Additionally, Payton’s recent investigation into a local university revealed that the school was operating fraudulently without a license. The NBC 7 story led to the State of California forcing the school to close in March 2013 and prompted an investigation by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security. Her coverage of the 2007 Firestorm also earned her an Emmy. She's reported breaking news live on the TODAY show, MSNBC, and other NBC stations across the country throughout her career. Mari will continue to be a fill-in anchor from time to time as schedules dictate.

In her time working around the country before returning to Southern California, Mari worked at WLBT, the NBC affiliate in Jackson, Mississippi. While at WLBT, she was sent to the Mississippi Gulf Coast, where she rode out the storm and covered the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina. She also won an Associated Press award for a piece on the obesity epidemic in the state of Mississippi.

Mari graduated magna cum laude from the University of Southern California with a double major in Broadcast Journalism and Political Science.

She was a Renaissance Scholar and graduated from the Annenberg School for Communication. While there, she worked as an anchor/reporter for Annenberg TV News, USC’s live half hour nightly newscast. That’s also where she learned to shoot and edit.

In her free time she enjoys traveling. Her recent stops include Japan, Australia and Argentina. She also loves cooking, yoga, and cheering on the Trojan football team. Mari is passionate about food and wine and the social scene in San Diego.
Jeffrey Shimamoto is an entrepreneur, lawyer, musician and entertainer, as well as serving on the Board of Governors of the Japan America Society of Southern California. He is a loyal husband to his wife Miho and a loving father to his two daughters Jade and Ruby. While serving on the Board of Governors of the American Chamber of Commerce in Japan, Mr. Shimamoto served as emcee and auctioneer for its annual Charity Ball. His high energy personality and friendly demeanor will surely keep you engaged in the evening’s festivities.

The five core women of Contemporary Los Angeles Winds (CLAW) explore new music through collaboration with local composers, daring concert programming, and challenging conventional expectations of woodwind quintet.

Annie Bosler (horn/nat horn/Wagner tuba/alphorn/garden hose/conchs) is a freelance musician in Los Angeles, a member of the Los Angeles Horn Quartet, CLAW, and teacher of horn at UC Irvine. The Colburn School of the Performing Arts, Idyllwild Arts Academy, and El Camino College. Bosler graduated with a Doctor of Musical Arts degree in 2008 from the University of Southern California. Bosler has toured with Star Wars in Concert and Josh Groban performing on Dancing with the Stars, The Ellen Show, and PBS’s Live from Lincoln Center. She can also be seen playing horn on seasons 2 and 4 of Fox’s TV show Glee. Bosler travels around the world lecturing about wellness for musicians. Her areas of specialty include dealing with performance anxiety, instrument ergonomics, and mapping of the brain to the body. She also produced and directed 1MT: Hollywood Horns of the Golden Years, a film documentary about the history of Los Angeles studio horn players. Her teachers include: James Thatcher, Vincent DeRosa, John Zirbel, Richard Todd, David Kreibiel, Dennis Abelson, Robert Pruzin, and Kristy Morell. www.anniebosler.com

Originally hailing from New England, Erin (clarinet/sax/flute) is a sprightly performer of new music, frequently found in small chamber groups of unusual instrumentation. Erin Armstrong has studied contemporary composers and folk music at Masaryk University in Czech Republic, University College Cork in Ireland, Carnegie Mellon, Williams-Mystic, and CalArts. She came to L.A. after touring as music director, chief mate, and cast member of the Caravan Stage tall ship circus theater in New Orleans, Holland and Belgium. In recent years she has performed as bari sax/flutist with CalArts Latin Jazz; made multiple appearances at RedCat with New Century Players, Balinese gamelan, and with the NOW festival; flute soloist with gamelan in the Grand Performance Series; invited guest artist on bari sax with the Aspen Festival Orchestra under David Zinman and on didgeridoo with American Youth Symphony; and as multi reed player with The Industry in hyperopera Crescent City by Anne LeBaron. Erin plays regularly with the neo-klezmer ensemble The Shpil, the Jon Armstrong Jazz Orchestra, and is a founding member of CLAW.

A musical omnivore, freelance oboist and English hornist Claire Brazeau enthusiastically performs in styles ranging from Baroque to cutting-edge contemporary. Recently, she was heard performing works by John Adams and Elliot Carter at Zankel Hall, Carnegie Hall, as a participant in 21st Century American Ensemble Workshop led by John Adams and David Robertson. She currently serves as principal oboist of Le Train Bleu, a new music ensemble in New York conducted by Ransom Wilson. For the 2011-2012 season, she was a Visiting Artist at the American Academy in Rome, Italy, where she programmed and performed a variety of chamber music and solo concerts. As a guest, she has performed with orchestras and ensembles including Wildup, Santa Barbara Symphony, Long Beach Opera, Los Angeles Bach Festival, American Symphony Orchestra, the Da Capo Chamber Players, the Berkshire Bach Society and the Commonwealth Opera Company. She has participated in festivals including Aspen, Yale School of Music Norfolk Chamber Music Festival, the New York String Orchestra Seminar, and the Pierre Monteux School. In August she will participate in the Lucerne Music Academy, a new music orchestral and chamber music festival led by Pierre Boulez in Switzerland. Brazeau earned a BM in oboe performance as well as BAs in piano performance and East-Asian studies from Bard College and Conservatory in New York where she was an oboe student of Laura Ahlbeck, Elaine Douvas, and Stephen Hammer, and a piano student of Blair McMillen. Currently, she is an Artist Diploma candidate at The Colburn School where she studies with Los Angeles Chamber Orchestra's principal oboist, Allan Vogel. www.clairebrazeau.com

Dana Jackson is currently pursuing a Performance Studies Certificate at the Colburn School in downtown Los Angeles, studying with Richard Beene. She is the second bassoonist of the Santa Barbara Symphony, and principal bassoonist of the American Youth Symphony. While living in Chicago Ms. Jackson was a member of the Civic Orchestra, Chicago Symphony’s training program. She holds a Masters degree from Northwestern University in Chicago and a Bachelors degree from the University of Southern California. During the summers Ms. Jackson has participated in such festivals as the National Repertory Orchestra, Banff Summer Music Festival, and Moritzburg Festival.

Sammi Lee is a flutist, improviser and educator based out of California. Sammi received her Master’s degree in Fine Arts from California Institute of the Arts with contemporary flute performance in 2008. She worked closely with Anne LeBaron, Baroque Ensemble under the instruction of Allen Vogel and Michael Pisaro’s Experimental Ensemble, featuring performances of Elliot Carter at 100 and John Cage: “3’3” and Beyond at the REDCAT. As a producer, she has directed a concert series in Los Angeles with focus on premiering local composers and their new works since 2008. In extension of the concert series, in 2010, she started a new project with CLAW (Contemporary Los Angeles Winds), performing productions mainly of newly commissioned works.

Her most recent performance calendar featured collaboration with Van Dyke Parks, Vinny Golia’s Large Improvisation Ensemble and Heidi Ducker dance company. Currently Sammi is a music faculty at Rolling Hills Preparatory School in Palos Verdes where she teaches middle school music and high school composition, and conducts instrumental ensembles. Also she works at the Colburn School of Music as a resident advisor.

It is with great pleasure that I offer my congratulations to the Japan America Society of Southern California on the occasion of its 104th anniversary. During my two years here in Los Angeles, I have witnessed the strong positive influence that the Society and its diverse membership has on the deep friendship between Japan and the United States. Its many contributors comprise the numerous essential ties that Japan has with the Southern California region.

I also wish to applaud this year’s most deserving recipient of the Kokusai Shimin Sho, or “International Citizens Award”. I extend my most heartfelt appreciation and congratulations to Hitachi on the occasion of its recognition as a standout contributor to technology, society, and the expansion of the Japan-U.S. relationship through its business and innovation, and generous contributions to the wider community.

Broad coalitions are needed to build the bridges between countries. It is the work of the Japan Society of Southern California and the other connected businesses and community organizations in our region that enable the grass-roots relationship building that underpins the Japan-U.S. friendship. I appreciate the ongoing fundraising efforts by the Society for the 2011 Japan Relief Fund, which has nearly reached $1.5 million. This past year, Japan has continued to put great effort into its recovery from not only the earthquake and tsunami, but from difficult economic times, and these efforts have begun to show tangible results. With a revitalized spirit, Japan is reaching out to build even stronger overseas ties. I look forward, therefore, to continuing to increase our partnerships with the Society and its many members as we grow and prosper together in the future.

Sincerely,

Jun Niimi
Consul General of Japan

Japan Bowl® of Southern California

Japan Bowl® of Southern California is a Japanese language and culture competition for high school students. Initiated in 1992 by the Japan America Society of Washington, D.C., Japan Bowl® focuses on the knowledge of “Japan, the country”, rather than simply the language itself.

With guidance from JASWDC, the Japan America Society of Southern California hosted the Inaugural Japan Bowl® of Southern California on March 9, 2013. The winning team was sent to compete in the National Japan Bowl® held in Washington, D.C.

The Inaugural Japan Bowl® of Southern California was made possible by a generous grant from The Freeman Foundation.

We thank our Inaugural Japan Bowl® sponsors, Hitachi, Ltd., Union Bank, N.A. and the Japan Business Association of Southern California. We also received strong support from the Japan Foundation and the California Association of Japanese Language Teachers.

Students enrolled in Japanese language classes in high school are eligible to compete in the Japan Bowl® of Southern California. The 2nd Annual Japan Bowl® of Southern California will be held on Saturday, March 1, 2014.

For more information, please contact Kay Amano, Programs Director at amano@jas-socal.org or visit www.jas-socal.org/JapanBowl.
