

US-Japan Economic Alliance and Japan's National Security Environment

With North Korea firing missiles and tensions soaring in the region, as well as China's leader, Xi Jinping, consolidating his power, will Prime Minister Abe's landslide victory in the recent general election lead to reshaping Japan's political landscape? Will his new economic plan focusing on raising productivity, driving innovation and trade, and boosting Japanese corporations revive the Japanese economy? Our panel of experts will provide their forecast on Japan and US-Japan business, trade, security and international relations in 2018.
